

Vacancy: Communications Advisor for the North Sea Region Programme Joint Secretariat

The North Sea Region Programme Joint Secretariat is looking for a skilled Communications Advisor with experiences in a broad range of communication tasks. This is an exciting opportunity for professionals who want to develop their experience in a European working environment specialised in transnational and European regional development co-operation.

The Communications Advisor will work within the team structure of the Joint Secretariat. Day to day responsibilities will include maintenance of the programme website and social media channels, advising project developers and ongoing projects, developing videos and training material for online use, preparation and promotion of events, and coordination with external suppliers of eg. IT solutions and graphic material.

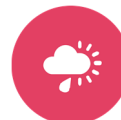

The work will be varied and also includes training activities, participation and presentations at public events and further developing the IT tools available.

Candidate profile

The ideal candidate will have a relevant degree and experience with communication with diverse international stakeholders.

We expect a strong skill set in the following fields:

- Experience with communicating complex messages in an accessible and engaging way to a diverse, international audience.
- Experience working with content management systems and social media channels.
- Experience with managing or coordinating communication activities.
- Excellent written and spoken English skills.
- Experience with graphic design, development of training videos and/ or event management skills are an advantage.

The successful candidate will likely have at least some years of working experience in the field, preferably from a public administrations environment.

Other desirable qualifications include:

- Experience in regional development and knowledge about Interreg
- International working experience
- Team working experience
- Ability to communicate in one or more languages of the North Sea Region

Deadlines and other

The salary level will be related to qualifications. The job is located in Viborg, Denmark and will involve travelling to programme events in the participating countries of the Programme. The closing date for applications is 27 January 2017. Interviews will be held upon agreement in Viborg, Denmark in week 6.
